tified Silver Lake beachgoers on July 31 that swimming in Silver Lake was prohibited since the weekly E.Coli test returned exceeding levels of bacteria in the lake.

Their website explains that "a beach will be closed if the bacteria test exceeds either of these limits: 235 E.Coli/100 ml. of water in a single sample, or a geometric mean of 126 in the last five consecutive samples."

According to the website's measurements, on July 31 the E.Coli test reported 270 and 720 E.Coli/100 ml. of water, with samples taken from town beach center and town beach right respectively. The next week's test came back with 250 and 250 E.Coli/100 ml. of water. Finally, the test from Aug. 5 returned a passing bacteria test, but the geometric mean from the previous consecutive samples failed to meet the standard.

RMLD and NextEra Energy Resources cut ribbon for new Battery Energy Storage System

READING — On Wednesday, July 10, 2019, representatives from the Massachusetts Department of Energy Resources (DOER) and Massachusetts Clean Energy Center (MassCEC), local delegates of the Massachusetts House and Senate, local officials, and representatives from NextEra Energy Resources joined Reading Municipal Light Department (RMLD) Commission members and staff for a ribbon cutting ceremony to commemorate the completion and electrification of the 5-megawatt Minute Battery Energy Storage System (BESS) located at RMLD's North Reading substation.

The unit was installed with the support of a $1 million grant from the Baker-Polito Administration's Energy Storage Initiative (ESI) Advancing Commonwealth Energy Storage (ACES) program, funded by the DOER and administered by the MassCEC. The unit will support RMLD's "shredding the peak," and will integrate into RMLD's power supply portfolio a mix focused on providing reliable and cleaner energy resources.

Peaks occur when the highest level of electricity is consumed in the region both monthly and annually. Reducing RMLD's usage during peaks helps to offset current and future transmission and capacity costs, a direct benefit to RMLD customers. Peaks can also impact the environment; in some cases, less efficient and higher carbon emitting New England generators are called into action to meet the high demand for electricity. Energy storage units such as the BESS can help to reduce the need for these types of peaking generators.

The BESS will be charged during off-peak hours and discharged during peak events to reduce RMLD's peak load. The BESS is co-located with RMLD's 2.5-megawatt Distributed Generator, which is also used for peak reduction.

The BESS is the largest stand-alone energy storage unit in Massachusetts, and the largest of the 26 projects selected to receive the Commonwealth's ACES funding.

Speakers at the ceremony included: Coleen O'Brien, General Manager, Reading Municipal Light Department; Commissioner Judith Judson, Massachusetts Department of Energy Resources; Stephen Pike, Chief Executive Officer, Massachusetts Clean Energy Center; House Minority Leader Bradley H. Jones, 20th Middlesex; Senator Jason M. Lewis, 5th Middlesex; Kathryn Manupelli, Chair, North Reading Select Board; Ross Groffman, Vice President, NextEra Energy Resources; and David Talbot, Chair, Reading Municipal Light Department Board of Commissioners.

Following the ceremony, Representative David Robertson presented RMLD with an official certificate of congratulations from the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

RMLD would like to thank the Baker-Polito Administration, the Executive Office of Energy and Environmental Affairs, and the DOER for offering the innovative ACES grant program which helped fund this project. House Minority Leader Jones, Sen. Lewis, and Senator Bruce Tarr for supporting RMLD's grant application; the North Reading Select Board and Town of North Reading staff for their support and partnership during the construction of the system; the MassCEC for administering the ACES grant program; and NextEra Energy Resources for designing, constructing, and operating the system as an energy service provider for the RML.

News and notes from WCTV

By SHAUN NEVILLE
WCTV Executive Director

A bill that was filed this summer at the State House could be very important to the future of WCTV. HD.4389 — An Act Relative to Digital Entertainment on Public Rights of Way — aims to update the law relative to how media consumption is changing and how that impacts centers like WCTV.

For more than 30 years, WCTV's funding has relied on cable franchise agreements between cable companies and the Town of Wilmington (important note: not tax dollars). In order to run lines throughout town and sell service, those companies agree to return a small percentage of their cable-related revenues back to town to support local programming. It's like this in most Massachusetts communities.

But cable subscriptions are down (about seven percent statewide over the past few years) as people "cut the cord." As we all know, people aren't throwing away their TVs. Instead, new streaming video providers have entered the market, creating competition and offering many of the same services as traditional cable. But these new streaming companies aren't held to the same standards as cable... even though they are often delivered to your home with the same wire.

This bill aims to fix that.

It would place a fee — comparable to what's on traditional cable — on streaming providers for using the same "public rights of way" to sell their product to households in Massachusetts. It's not a tax on the internet. But it would apply to streaming services on the internet like Netflix, Hulu, and others.

Funds would be collected by the state and distributed to the state general fund, municipalities (like Wilmington) and community media centers (like WCTV). Without an updated funding model, WCTV will likely continue to see declining revenue and be forced to make choices about what services we can offer the community.

We are so thankful to have initial support on this bill from State Reps Dave Robertson and Ken Gordon.

Overall, more than 80 state lawmakers have signed on as co-sponsors. As the bill moves forward in the legislative process, we are excited to see what happens next.

What can you do? If you see your state rep or state senator, tell them you support this idea. We don't yet know when the bill will come up for debate but getting the word out is vital for the next several weeks.

If you'd like to read more about this bill, head to WCTV.org and look for the "Streaming Bill" button at the top of the page. It has a bunch of links with further details. I'm also happy to answer any questions you might have (shaun@wctv.org).

ENTERTAINMENT EXPENSES AFTER TAX REFORM

The Tax Cuts and Jobs Act (TCJA)

repealed the deduction for entertainment, amusement or recreation expenses that are directly related to or associated with the active conduct of the taxpayer's trade or business. The tax code expressly disallows a deduction for any activity or facility, which is of a type generally considered to constitute entertainment, amusement or recreation. Now more than ever it is more important to track your business meals, travel and lodging, which are deductible, as a separate expense detached from any event or facility that is generally considered an entertainment expense, which is not deductible.

For example: You attend a business convention at a golf course in 2018. The travel and lodging expenses related to getting to the business convention are still deductible as discussed above. During your stay, you make a connection and invite your prospect out to lunch and a round of golf. Your lunch is still deductible; however, the round of golf is no longer a deductible expense. To complicate this scenario, if the hotel package you purchased for the convention included a round of golf, the value of the round of golf is treated as entertainment and must be distinguished from the lodging expense as a separate nondeductible item.

A Silver Lake story from the 'olden days' back in 1960

By BRENT CLARK

I have told so many stories in the good old Town Crier that I had to go back and read a few to see if I told this beauty. I did not find this story so — here we go.

It took place in the summer of 1960 or so.

Back in those days we spent a huge amount of time at Silver Lake. At the age of six, seven or eight we would walk, run, or ride bikes to the lake and spend all day there and then head home the same way we came. I can still see the line of exhausted kids dragging our towels as we made our way home after a long day of "fun in the sun!"

It still amazes me to this day that we were allowed to travel all over town at such a young age. Two things come to mind about that. For one — that was a very different time. It was an innocent time in a small town where you trusted your neighbors to look out after your kid if they needed help. Also (for my family of 10 with a single mother) responsibility for other kids was handed out liberally at a very young age out of necessity.

I was the "oldest of the little kids" in my family. I was often in charge of four little brothers and sisters. I believe the job should have been my sister Sharon's job — but she was often troubled with a lifelong illness that kept her from that responsibility.

Thus the job of watching these kids came to me.

Which brings me to this story.

Back then there was a grocery store called Stevens Market right across the lake from the public beach.

My mother sometimes dropped us off at the public beach to swim while she went grocery shopping. After shopping she would sometimes go for a swim with us as she picked us up.

On this particular day my mother let us out at the beach as she looked at me and said, "keep an eye on the little kids!" Oh boy, this meant I had to watch two brothers and a sister. My youngest sister was too little to come with us at that time.

Imagine if you will — a seven year old boy keeping an eye on three kids, on a hot day, at a crowded beach.

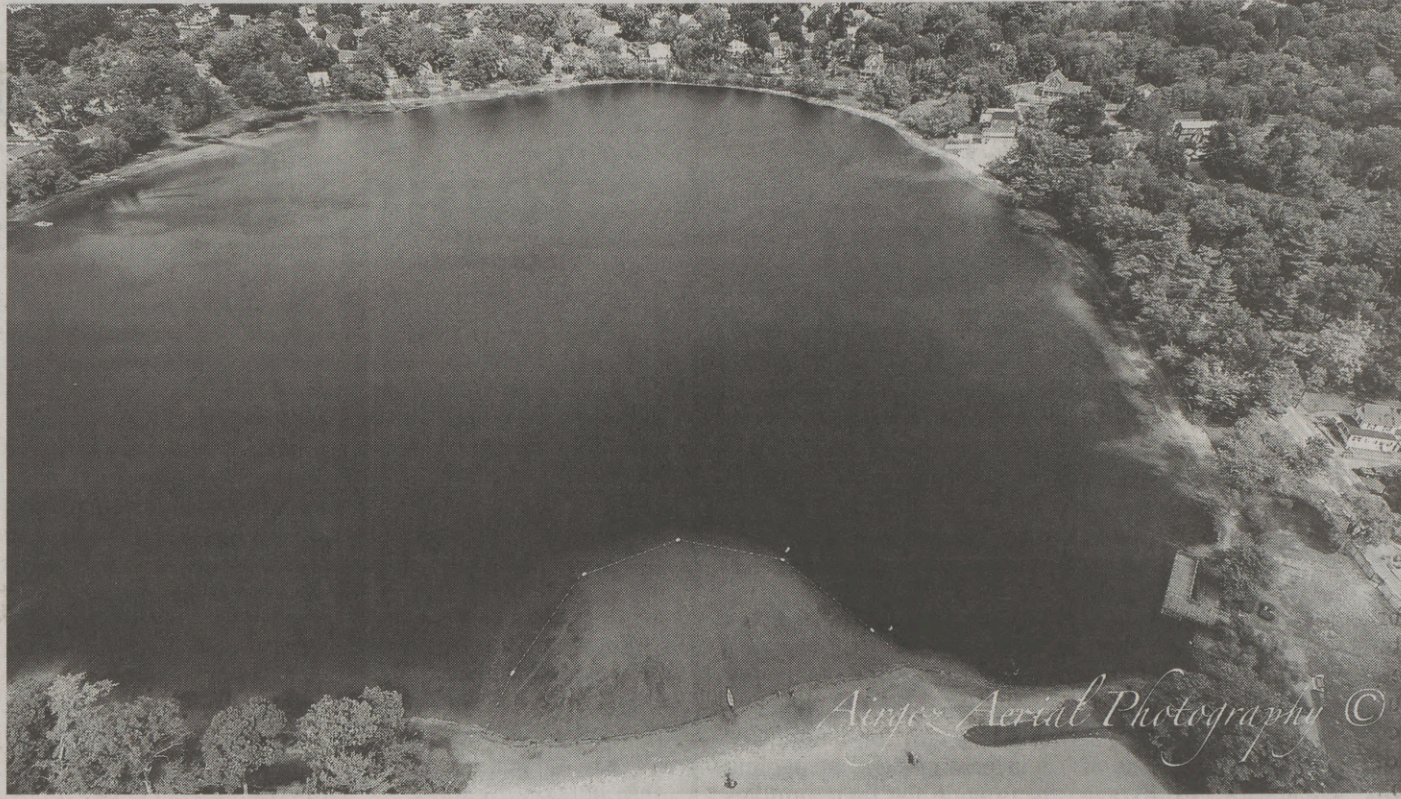

Most of the times, these guys would do as I said, but other times they could be stubborn and do what they wanted and not listen to me at all. They could and would say "you're not the boss o' me!"

Watching these kids was a tough job that I seemed to embrace with an open heart because I had a deep love and sense of responsibility to them.

Things were going along pretty good that day when suddenly all hell broke loose!

I was looking at my next younger brother Cliff when a GIANT horsefly landed on his forehead and bit him. The next thing I knew his head started to swell to biblical proportions.

I panicked as I broke out in chills and goose bumps. I ran for help. I knew there was an older lady there who ran the beach. I remember she used to sit on the beach and knit to this day.

I'm not sure what happened. Whether I was afraid to ask her or if I found her or what the hell happened but I came up empty. No help!

I quickly ran back to my kids and grabbed my brother and started to shove him towards the chain link fence gate as I yelled and pointed.

I pointed to Stevens Market way across the lake and yelled, "Ma is over there, Ma is over there, run to her, run to her!!"

No kidding — that's the best I could come up with at the time. I could not leave the other kids and it was all I could think to do.

I can still see in my mind my brother — with his swollen head — as he ran around the fence. I remember thinking with a sinking heart that he just wasn't going to make it, he is dead in the water. My brother is going to die and it is my fault.

But, just as he was even with me on the other side of the fence the Wilmington Police pulled up to him in their cruiser. I yelled out real loud and fast "That's my little brother and he got stung and mymotherisNancyClarkand sheisgroceryshoppingatStevensMarket!!"

The police man put him in the back seat and drove away.

That is all I remember that day. I know my brother made it because he is still with us some 59 years later.

I also am so glad he made it because I know I would have felt guilty for the rest of my life.

I have looked back at this memory and often find myself feeling guilty that I did not handle things well. You know how it is. Some things get planted in your mind when you are little and you just can't shake it. However, I had a counselor once who told me that she thought I was a great hero who saved my brother's life. I was only seven and I did the best I could, and my brother is alive.

Oh, and this might seem weird or whatever but I had a dream one time. I am not sure if I was awake or asleep when I saw a picture in my mind of the policeman in the passenger seat of that cruiser and he looked just like Jesus as I picture him. Maybe somebody else was looking out for my little brother, too!

I hope you enjoy the rest of your summer. Sigh! It's all most over.

History:

Eaton-Caswell house: Silver Lake landmark demolished

By LARZ F. NEILSON

There is now a vacant lot at 80 Main St., facing Silver Lake. Until last week, there was a 10-room Victorian house there. On Wednesday, it was torn down. Attorney Michael Newhouse plans to build a new office there, using some elements of the old house that were saved. He has already built a new home next door.

From 1945, the old two-and-a-half story house had been the home of the Eaton family. Long before that, it had been a summer home of Horace and Emma Caswell.

The Bernard Eaton family moved to Cottage Street in Wilmington in 1938. Seven years later, they bought the beautiful Caswell house, in the point between Main Street and Glen Road. Making their move quite memorable, the ice house across the street burned the same day they moved.

Bernard and Elsie Eaton raised a family of nine in that house. Mr. Eaton, a welder, kept a bountiful garden until it was destroyed by town's installation of a sewer line in 1981. He died in 1992, Elsie Eaton in 1981.

In front of the house, at the intersection, stands a monument to Ronald Eaton, a Naval aviator killed in Korea on June 24, 1952. Eaton bailed out after his Corsair was hit, and landed behind enemy lines. However, when a helicopter came to his rescue, he was killed in the rescue attempt.

The following story was written in 1973 by Capt. Larz Neilson, founder of the Town Crier. He grew up next door to that house.

It is a three-story structure of graceful lines, built in the second half of the nineteenth century, in a style that has been called Victorian. It stands on a nice but small grassy plain, extending from Silver Lake down to Lubbers Brook. It sits between Main Street and Glen Road, which was once the main road to the center of town and which dates back to at least 1741. The easterly bounds had been an old ditch, dating back to 1720 or earlier, which connected Silver Lake with the brook and served to keep full the millpond of the Thompson - Harnden mill.

The area around Sandy Pond, which was later renamed Silver Lake, was a quiet and beautiful place in the years following the Civil War. Horace Caswell, a New Brunswick native, had the house built for himself and his bride, Emma Marshall, some time after 1872.

Emma was born in South Boston but was raised in Wilmington. The family moved to Wilmington some time before the Civil War, perhaps shortly after 1850. Emma's mother, a widow, ran a boarding house at the other end of Glen Road in the days before the Civil War, in which lived men who worked as bakers in the Bond cracker bakeries.

The Caswells seemed to alternate between living in Boston and living in Wilmington. Their son Bertram was born in Boston in 1875. Their names do not appear in lists of persons present at various socials in this town, as for instance, at the churches or the parties of Mrs. Dr. France Hiller.

But Emma Caswell was alert to the goings on in the community and years later could gossip over the back yard fence about the foibles and scandals of the past, in Wilmington. She was a lively lady, very much alert.

In the days before World War I, Horace, now retired, built a store and ice cream parlor on Main Street. The streetcars would come out to Silver Lake with Sunday crowds and Horace was there to greet them, as was another vendor, Mr. MacFarland on Grove Avenue.

The building that housed Horace's ice cream parlor later became a TV repair shop.

When Horace died in 1917, his son, Dr. Bertram Caswell took over, along with his wife Charlotte, better known as Lottie.

Bertram had a long, low car in which he drove back and forth to his office in Boston, at the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. Having that kind of car, it might be inferred that was a fast driver, but the opposite was the case. He was one of the most steady plodders this writer has ever known, and he drove his car the same way.

Lottie was a worker. She kept the back yard going. She kept pet bantams. She had several raspberry bushes and a large garden. Every summer, she grew vegetables that she canned each fall. Hundreds of glass quart jars would be in that cellar each fall, all filled with canned food.

Nearby was a large field, known as Purbeck's, where Marjorie Road and Davis Road were later built. For many years it was a hayfield. After the last hay cutting, it was a veritable sea of daisies, growing where there are now homes and trees.

Lottie's daughter, Doris and her girlfriends would go into that field, laughing gaily, and gather their daisies. It was a sight to behold, beautiful blonde Doris, who grew up to be a model and actress.

Later, Doris acquired a Marmon, a big flashy car, much in contrast to that driven by Bertram. It was one of the things to see in the old town, Doris and her Marmon beside Bertram and his car.

But the times were changing. Dr. Caswell sold the property in the late 1920s, and disappeared from town, and with him Lottie and Doris. They lived in Medford and Somerville. In May 1930, at age 23, Doris married silent screen actor Kenneth Harlan, his fifth wife of nine. The marriage lasted seven months. When they split in January 1931, it was announced that she would return to the stage in New York City.

Letters to the editor

President Trump providing hope for kidney patients

To the editor,
President Trump has promised to fight for the forgotten men and women of America — those whose needs and suffering have been too often unheeded by their government. One forgotten group in healthcare is the millions of Americans with some stage of kidney disease — especially the more than 700,000 Americans suffering from the final, deadly stage of the disease, kidney failure. That includes 11,721 patients here in Massachusetts, most of whom must go through the incredibly draining experience of receiving kidney dialysis several times a week, for several hours each time.

But there is good news. President Trump recently signed an executive order launching a revolutionary initiative at the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services called “Advancing American Kidney Health.” The initiative aims to help prevent Americans from experiencing kidney failure in the first place, provide more options for treatment once that has occurred, and deliver more life-saving transplants.

This is especially important because kidney disease particularly burdens our low income and minority citizens. Kidney failure is three times more common among African-Americans than among whites, and low-income Americans are 50 percent more likely to suffer from it than those with higher incomes. Black and Hispanic Americans are also less likely to receive the transplants that represent the best treatment for kidney failure.

To prevent kidney disease and provide more treatment options, we’re launching new ways for Medicare to pay for kidney care. For example, nephrologists will soon be able to receive bonuses for preventing the progress of kidney disease in their patients. We’ll give providers a financial stake in getting their patients healthy, as opposed to just paying them for performing more procedures.

We have also proposed a Medicare initiative to give about half of America’s dialysis providers new incentives to provide patients with dialysis at home or even in their beds at night, rather than having them travel to dialysis centers. Today, only 5.6 percent of kidney patients in Massachusetts receive dialysis at home, an option that’s much more common in other countries. Home treatment is especially important for individuals and communities struggling to provide for their families — patients who cannot afford to leave their jobs and families several times a week for dialysis.

To provide more kidney transplants, we will be revising how kidneys are obtained from deceased organ donors, allowing better identification of kidneys for transplant. The executive order also calls for us to expand support for the generous living donors who choose to donate organs. Changing how we identify transplantable kidneys from deceased donors, by itself, could produce life-saving organs for an additional 17,000 Americans each year — including some of the 3,030 individuals currently waiting for a kidney in Massachusetts.

The President’s kidney initiative also includes working with the private sector to develop artificial, implantable kidneys, and continuing support for research into precision-medicine treatments designed to target kidney disease in the populations who are more likely to be genetically predisposed to the disease, including African Americans. We’ll also undertake a national awareness campaign about kidney disease, which is often undiagnosed in its early stages, like breast cancer and prostate cancer once were.

Too often, Washington focuses on some of the same tired fights in healthcare, year after year — doing nothing for decades to improve how we cover and treat something like kidney disease.

President Trump is shaking that up, and delivering American patients the affordability you need, the options and control you want, and the quality you deserve — especially to patients, like those with kidney disease, who have been forgotten for too long.

Useless meetings and civility topics for some reflections

By PAUL ANDREWS

You and I have maybe have attended more meetings than we can say but as we leave, we say, “what a waste of time.” Well, we are going to be reviewing that, not to solve the problem totally, as some meetings are essential anyway, plus another pass at the issues around “civility” that I have raised in this column before but still see it becoming a national nightmare.

Making meetings meaningful

The question often comes up at the beginning of every meeting, whether in city/town hall, school department or any other department for that matter and even meetings in the home front, which really gets close and serious, of making the meeting productive and serve a purpose. This issue was addressed recently by Allison Rodman and Jill Thompson when they listed several factors including: too many people present as one of the issues. Sometimes the meetings have so many participants a room is too small and needs to move to added space.

A second point raised was are the folks at the meeting unprepared and do not all have the same information that is being discussed, plus all people in the meeting should know in advance the information they need to bring to a meeting and the purpose or goal of the meeting. A third factor comes when folks come to a meeting with another issue on their mind that could interfere with the session. A simple statement from a facilitator or the person chairing the session is to raise that as a possibility, requesting that full attention be given to the issues being raised that hour.

Let me add, I stated an hour as one of my methods in the sense that (outside of formal corporate or city/town board meetings) that is enough time to resolve an issue and move on or to re-schedule to a new time, which should be done as seldom as possible. Rodman and Thompson also refer to another issue they call “parochial agendas” which I call “personal issues” coming with individuals at the meeting as their personal agenda, which is not necessarily the chairman’s goal.

Another point is a meeting that seems to bounce agendas around the room with no focus, which really creates a “waste of time atmosphere” meaning the chair or the person calling the meeting needs to control the “drifting process” from a meeting agenda.

While I must have attended 500 meetings from local non-profit meetings to city, state and national meetings, I have personally found the majority of successful meetings were those in which the pre-distributed agenda and potential power points guided the process to a meeting you left feeling good. One has to become aware that too often meetings become “story-telling sessions” that go on too long to take away from the agenda, focus and goals that must be clear entering the room.

An important point raised by Rodman and Thompson that I strongly support is that actions from meetings needed to be followed through to the greatest extent possible or this will become an issue in any future meetings of the same or possibly a different group. Let me tell you from personal experience, this can haunt you.

Finally on this point of meetings, let me include some personal suggestions. There is no reason to have meetings just because one is listed on the schedule for the year if you find there is not a reason to meet. Second, introductions may be in order at the beginnings of a meeting, especially if they are not regular attending groups. As stated above, keep the meeting to an hour. As chair, steer the meeting to the goals, as stated in the agenda, and if appropriate a note or e-mail of thanks is productive. Quite often a summary of a meeting can be very productive, time permitting.

Restoring civility

While I understand that what I am going to say is complicated, we need to really focus on restoring civility in our country. This goes for political, religious and school leaders among all other facets of our public and corporate world. The train is “off the tracks” in this area and it seems like day after day, stories come from our communities in this country that point to incidents that are palpable with the comment, “we never thought it would happen here.” Are we serious, these incidents can happen anywhere in any community in the United States.

Several leaders in this area have gone on the record of saying, “there is a role for each of us” as Robert Watson of Lynn University in Florida commented, adding, “we must reject the fear and the hate.” He added, “our nation has seen a collapse of civility and basic decency in our society.”

He cites anti-semitism, cyber-bullying, road rage, reality television as just some of the areas showing where this is manifested. Watson calls for a return to a sense of service, duty and neighborliness.

As we begin a new school year this could be a basic goal for all educators by manifesting the importance to civility among students and in general. Educators are such a powerful force in the lives of our next generation of leaders.

Book Stew Review

‘In West Mills’ by De’Shawn Charles Winslow

By EILEEN MACDOUGALL

This could be my favorite novel of the year so far (OK, OK — I probably have said that a few times). But this story is THE REAL DEAL. If anyone tells you that male authors can’t write women, give them this title to read.

The plot centers on Knot, an African American woman living on her own in a small North Carolina country town alongside her devoted neighbors Otis Lee and his wife Pep. All families have their secrets, and from 1941 until 1987, this trio holds theirs close.

What makes this book so special is the leisurely unwinding of days — going “up bridge” to the general store, evening gatherings on the porch, secret births and hidden deaths, horrible betrayals and abrupt confessions, all told through the inner thoughts and the musical dialogue of these profoundly believable people.

The outer world and its problems — wars, Jim Crow, and the slow crawl of progress — are hardly a factor. Here, through the pen of an amazingly skilled writer, the confinement to West Mills is just fine. Each of the trio, and the well-drawn secondary characters, act in both expected and surprising ways, make smart and dumb decisions, and it’s hardly bearable when it all comes to an end.

Tewksbury, Wilmington cadets graduate from MSO Youth Public Safety Academy

CHELMSFORD — Middlesex Sheriff Peter J. Koutoujian congratulated nearly 200 graduates of the Youth Public Safety Academy (YPSA) primarily from Chelmsford, Lowell, Tewksbury and Wilmington during a ceremony at Chelmsford High School on Friday, July 26, 2019. It was the third of six such graduations planned for this summer.

For six weeks each summer, the Middlesex Sheriff's Office (MSO) offers youngsters ages 8-12 from Middlesex County communities the opportunity to participate in educational and confidence-building activities alongside members of the MSO as well as their local police and fire departments. YPSA staff incorporate multiple learning styles to teach personal safety and teamwork while building relationships between youth and public safety officials.

"This is the 20th year we have hosted YPSA, and every year we see the positive impact it has on youngsters across the county," said Sheriff Koutoujian. "Cadets at this camp learn life-long skills in areas like fire safety and emergency preparedness, but just as importantly they foster bonds with their community officials in a way that keeps that educational curiosity alive far beyond one summer."

More than 1,000 cadets from more than three dozen communities participate in YPSA each year. To learn more about YPSA and some of the Middlesex Sheriff's Office other community-based programming, visit middlesexsheriff.org/community.

Visit historic Ogunquit, Maine

By HEATHER BURNS
News Correspondent

Ogunquit, Maine is a summertime vacation spot for many, with its beautiful coastline and New England seaside charm. But, besides sandy beaches and quaint gift shops, Ogunquit offers a vast history of fishing, lobstering, and New England architecture.

Ogunquit also has a rich cultural history provided by its vibrant art community and professional summer theatre stock.

The Ogunquit Heritage Museum, located at 86 Obeds Lane in Ogunquit, is dedicated to preserving documents, historical items, knowledge and memories of Ogunquit varied heritage.

The Ogunquit Heritage Museum (OHM) is housed in a circa 1780 building that was once the home of sea Captain James Winn.

Captain Winn was born in 1808, and lived in the home with his seafaring family until he was old enough to follow his family legacy. As Captain, he helmed the Winn family owned, 161 ton brig that departed regularly out of Kennebunkport.

Remarkably, through 200 years of owners and tenants, nothing has changed the original integrity of the Winn home. With original paneling, flooring and hardware still intact, the home formerly stood on Route One, but was moved after it was donated to the town.

The 18th century cape style house is now nestled in the Dorothea Jacob Grant Common, which features large open areas with winding paths, and is now the home of the Ogunquit Heritage Museum.

The Museum offers a visit back in time to favorite Ogunquit spots, such as Perkins Cove, Ogunquit River, Ogunquit Village, and the Marginal Way.

Learn about the sight of the first footbridge, the first Pavilion, and the first Ogunquit Playhouse.

Discover the interesting history of many sites like The Maxwell House, The Lookout Hotel, and The Woodbury Studio just to name a few.

the Littlefield Library, that consists of books and documents originally owned by Charles Littlefield Seaman. Charles Littlefield Seaman was an Ogunquit genealogist and historian, and a direct descendant of Edmund Littlefield (the immigrant ancestor of the New England Littlefields, founders of Wells, Maine). Charles is also the author of three books on Ogunquit history.

The growing collection at the Littlefield Library currently consists of almost 600 volumes of genealogy, family history, town and regional history, vital records, periodicals and maps pertaining to Maine and New England.

Residing in front of the Museum, or sometimes moored in Perkins Cove, is the Ogunquit Heritage Museum's own dory. Built and launched in 2008, this dory is an exact replica of the famous Ogunquit dory (a small fishing boat).

The Ogunquit dory was created by William Henry Perkins, a local fisherman, and dotted the Ogunquit coastline in the late 1800's. The Ogunquit dories were favored by local Maine fishermen, and differ from other similar vessels, because they were built to accommodate the rocky coast line and strong tides of Ogunquit, and had a very wide beam (middle section) to accommodate lobster traps or extra trawling equipment.

The sometimes colorfully painted Ogunquit dory has also been the subject of choice for many regional artists, making the dory a symbol of the Ogunquit coastline.

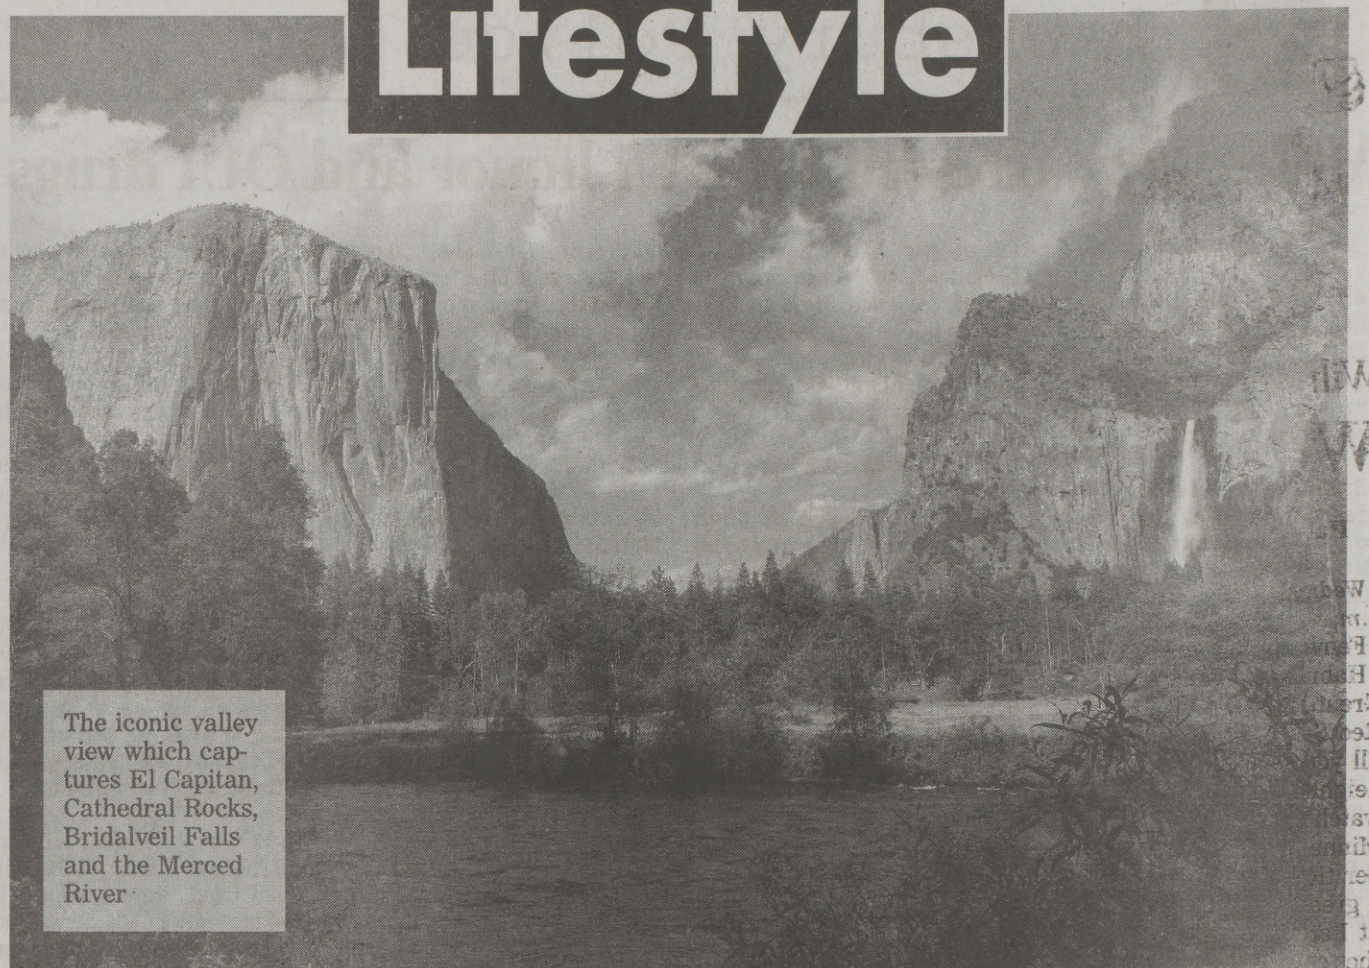

Because these dories are legendary and a part of Ogunquit coastal history, the OHM researched and labored to create a duplicate dory to display for the public to enjoy.

While enjoying all the wondrous sights Ogunquit has to offer, make time to stop at the Ogunquit Heritage Museum. This museum has been on the National Register of Historical Places since 1979, and will provide you with a meaningful appreciation of life in this coastal New England gem.

Admission to the Ogunquit Heritage Museum is free and open to the public June through October. Museum hours are Tuesday to Satur-

For information about the museum's special events in the fall and winter months, visit www.ogunquit.org.

The iconic valley view which captures El Capitan, Cathedral Rocks, Bridalveil Falls and the Merced River

A view from majestic Yosemite in central California

By PAIGE IMPINK
News Correspondent
paige@yourtowncrier.com

Sweeping meadows, soaring cliffs, and roaring waterfalls: few places in the United States match the astounding natural beauty of Yosemite National Park in central California.

Explored by naturalist John Muir, protected by President Abraham Lincoln, and captured forever by photographer Ansel Adams, Yosemite has attracted millions of visitors from around the world for over a century. There is no shortage of wonders to see across the 700,000-acre park; however, most of the iconic natural features are concentrated in the Yosemite Valley.

One facet of Yosemite that has come into popular focus recently is El Capitan, the 7,000-foot sheer mountain face scaled by Alex Honnold in the Academy Award winning documentary "Free Solo."

Bring a pair of binoculars to look for intrepid climbers from several sanctioned viewing spots along the valley floor, or arrive early to watch the morning sun light up El Cap's aptly named Dawn Wall.

Another famous climb is the magnificent Half Dome, which, despite its name, was never part of a full dome. Climbers must obtain permits before summiting the granite monolith via a cable system, a 14-hour journey roundtrip.

Yosemite is home to an abundance of spectacular waterfalls: Bridalveil Falls is one of the first sights visitors see upon entering the park; mighty Nevada Falls plummets down to misty Vernal Falls before depositing into the Merced River; and powerful Yosemite Falls is the tallest in North America.

Most points of interest in the valley are accessible via a free shuttle loop; and a two-hour ranger-led tram tour allows visitors to experience the valley's highlights. The National Park Service and the nonprofit Yosemite Conservancy offer a number of nature walks and talks, climbing and art classes, and planning services to maximize your visit. Learn about local Native America history at the Yosemite Museum, and enjoy new and old photography of the park at the Ansel Adams Gallery.

Not to be missed is the historic Majestic Yosemite Hotel, formerly the Ahwahnee Hotel, one of the grand National Park Service properties. Check out the massive dining room, timeless stained-glass windows, and an array of antique photographs as you ponder what vacations were like for visitors more than 100 years ago.

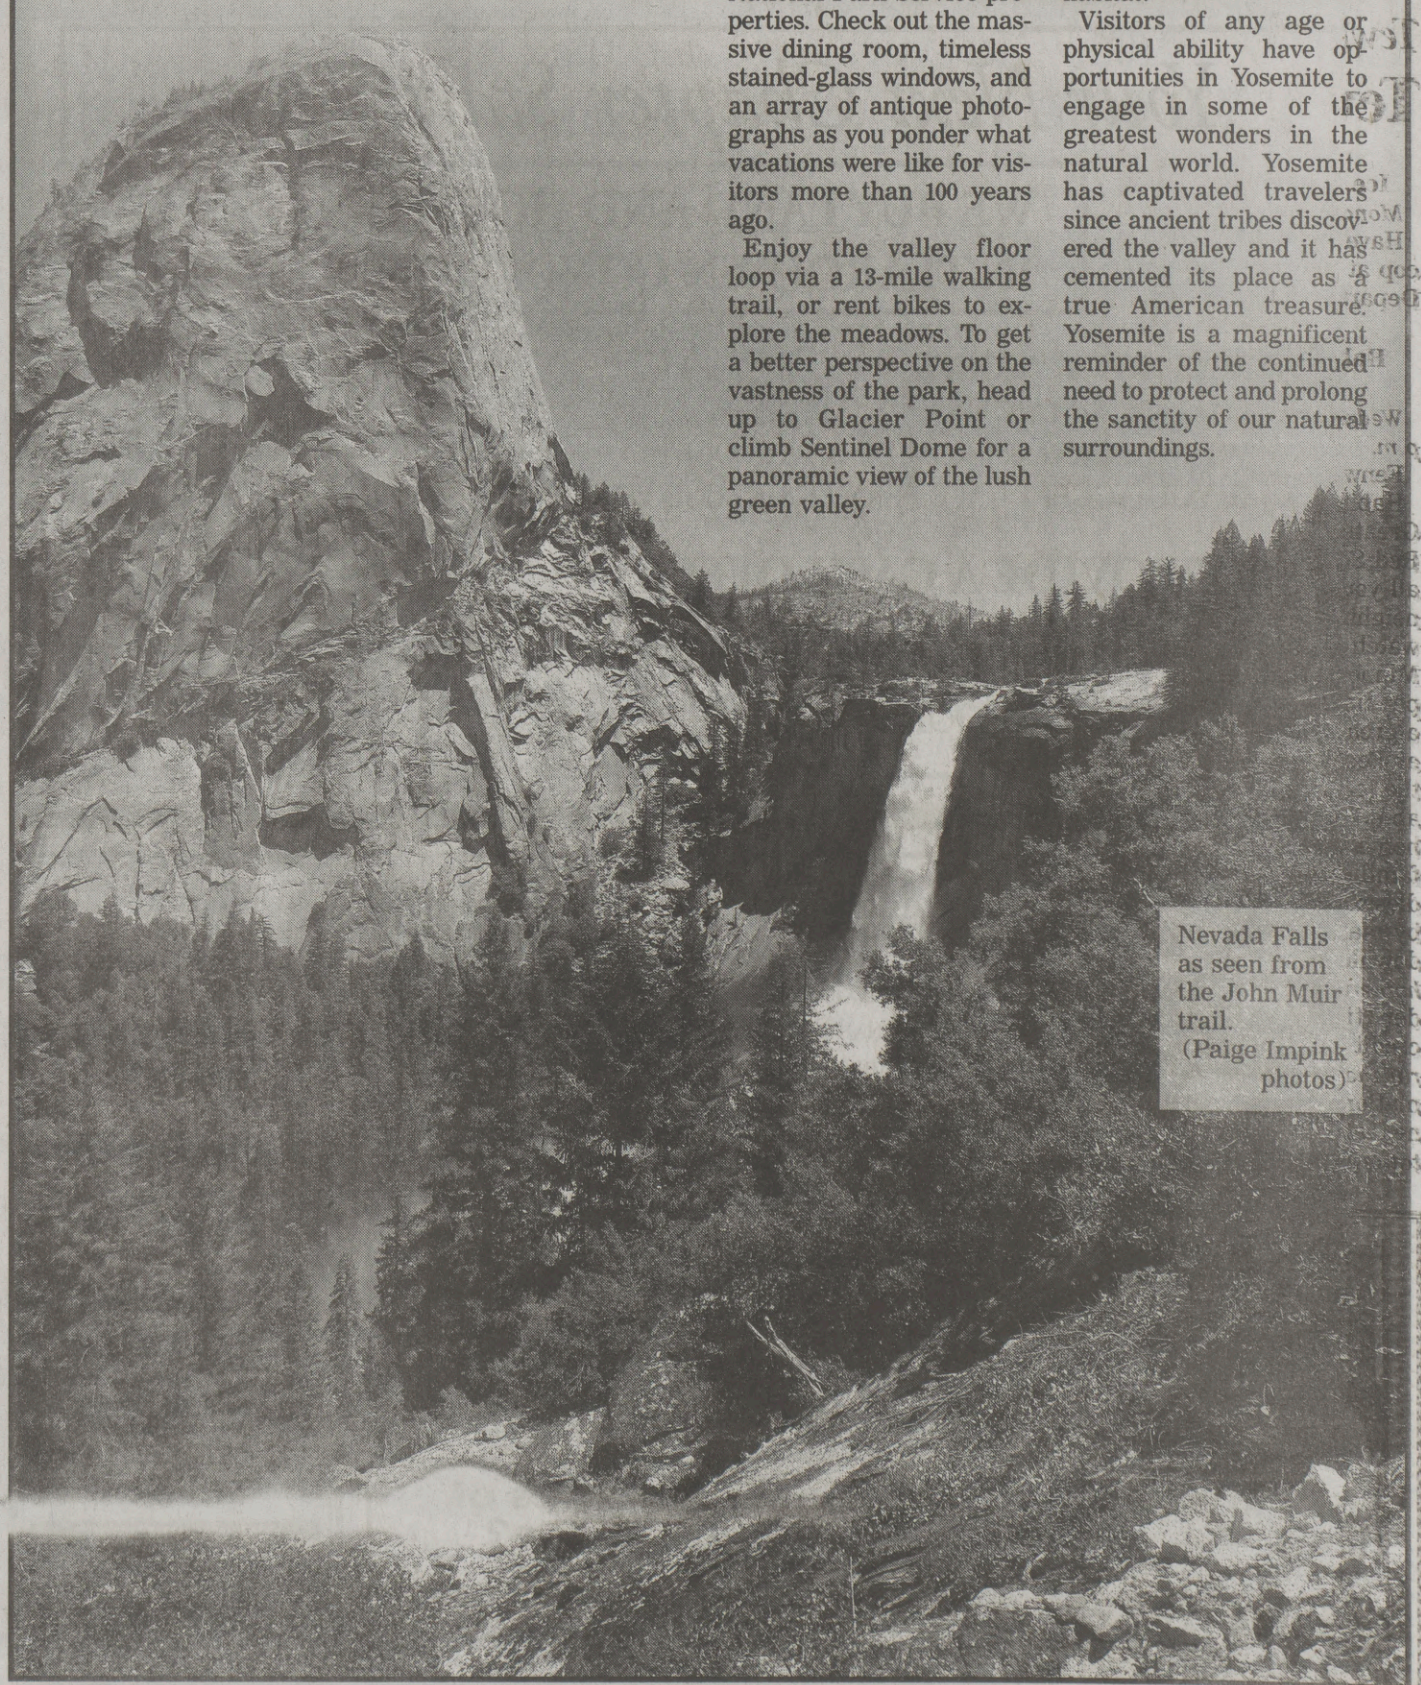

Enjoy the valley floor loop via a 13-mile walking trail, or rent bikes to explore the meadows. To get a better perspective on the vastness of the park, head up to Glacier Point or climb Sentinel Dome for a panoramic view of the lush green valley.

It is important to remember that Yosemite is not an amusement park, but a living habitat for thousands of species of plants and animals, some of which can't be found anywhere else in the world. Travelers are asked to "leave no trace," in order to insure the pristine and unparalleled array of wildlife, flora and fauna.

You may even see a California black bear along the trails — but keep your distance. Hide food out of sight to protect the bears, who have been desensitized and have become a danger to humans and themselves. Visitors should have sufficient water, layered clothing, energy food, and a map. Cell service is not guaranteed and hikers need to stay on the trail, to keep themselves safe and to protect the woodland habitat.

Visitors of any age or physical ability have opportunities in Yosemite to engage in some of the greatest wonders in the natural world. Yosemite has captivated travelers since ancient tribes discovered the valley and it has cemented its place as a true American treasure. Yosemite is a magnificent reminder of the continued need to protect and prolong the sanctity of our natural surroundings.

Wilmington driver injured in fatal accident in Woburn

By STAFF REPORT

WOBURN — State and Woburn police were still investigating, Thursday (Aug. 8), the cause of a major accident shortly before 10:30 a.m. Wednesday morning (July 31) where a Nashua, N.H. man was killed and a Wilmington man was injured in a crash on Cambridge Road in West Woburn.

The unexplained events to the cause of the accident have yet to be determined and Woburn Police report "it is still under investigation."

The Nashua, N.H. driver was proceeding south on Cambridge Road in Woburn, just north of St. Barbara's Church, and suddenly veered into the northbound lane where another car was going north. Both collided.

An initial inspection of the site revealed the driver to be a 72-year-old Nashua, N.H. man and the other a 58-year-old from Wilmington. Both were transported to local hospitals, however, those at the scene said the Nashua N.H. driver was dead.

The entire section of the busy Cambridge Road area was closed for 1 1/2 hours.

In the meantime, vehicles were directed down Surrey Circle to the north of the accident scene and one truck, a FedEx Freight Inc. truck, driven by a Miguel Rivera of Clinton, Mass. ripped out wires from a pole on Surrey Circle, leaving residents in the area without power. He was not injured.

Both vehicles at the accident scene had to be towed and the State Police reconstruction team was called to the site. The Cambridge Road roadway is technically state Route 3, leading from Burlington to Boston.

In the case of the FedEx truck, based in Freemont, Indiana, Woburn police were on the scene and were stopping and re-directing traffic at 10:36 a.m. when the truck came down Cambridge Road from the north. The FedEx truck turned around, but upon coming back toward Cambridge Road, the tractor trailer hooked the low-hanging electrical wires

"and caused multiple utility poles to fall," according to Woburn Police.

Police in a report indicated the truck had no other means of travel and was "forced to attempt to turn around down Surrey Circle due to the serious crash on Cambridge Road causing a road closure."

Police also said the wires in the area were below the 18-foot mark, which was a main contributing factor in the damage done to the utility poles. There was, however, no damage to the truck.

Woburn firefighters, after using the Jaws of Life for more than 30 minutes, peel back the roof of the Honda so they could extricate the driver after the crash on Cambridge Road.

Woburn Firefighters clean up the scene of a two-car crash that resulted in very serious injuries to one party on Cambridge Road at Surrey Road. The "Jaws of life" were used for nearly 30 minutes to free the trapped individual. Woburn Police have requested the State Police Reconstruction Team to the scene due to the very serious nature of the injuries.

New and improved Dunkin' reopens today

Dunkin' treats to guests.

Between 1 and 3 p.m., guests will have live entertainment as they stop by for their favorite coffee and baked goods. Free giveaways will include Dunkin' swag and Dunkin' gift cards.

In addition to the ribbon cutting, Dunkin' will also be presenting the Wilmington Fourth of July Committee with a check for $2,000.

"I'm hoping the grand opening draws attention to our investment in North Wilmington," Quinn said in an email. "The town has been great to me and my family."

He looks forward to celebrating Dunkin' at 357 Middlesex Ave's partnership with the Wilmington community.

Besides the store enhancements designed to create a better customer experience, Quinn mentioned that the secret to success at this Dunkin' location has always been the people working there.

"The Store Manager, Alicia

Powers, has worked with my family for 24 years," he wrote. "Alicia and her team keeps North Wilmington running!"

The Quinn family are grateful for Powers' commitment to DD and for the employees working alongside her.

After today's celebration, the next thing from the team at this Wilmington Dunkin' will work for is earning the "DD Green" Certification for Energy Efficiency as they commit to being more environmentally friendly.

explained that the E.Coli bacteria could be from human or animal waste, but it's more likely animal waste.

"It's probably from geese or other birds," she said. "We have a family of geese living near the lake."

While the lake being closed for heightened bacteria levels is rare for Wilmington, it's not uncommon for other fresh water beach and marine waters all over the state, especially after the hot and dry weather we've been having.

What the water needs for the bacteria levels to go back down is a few days of rain, Newhouse continued. Until the E.Coli goes down and a passing result comes in consistently, she says it's just a waiting game.

Director of the Recreation Department Karen Campbell maintains that while swimming remains prohibited in to this week due to the elevated E.Coli bacteria levels mean geometric reading, the town beach itself is still open for visitors.

Wilmington resident competes in PMC

A little adversity doesn't get in Dougherty's way

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com
STURBRIDGE - Kerry Dougherty simply wasn't going to be denied. Racing in his first ever Pan Mass Challenge this past weekend, disaster nearly struck on the first day of his ride when his most critical piece of equipment, his bike, suffered damage and could not be repaired.

Months of training had gone into his preparation for the grueling two-day 192-mile ride from Sturbridge to Provincetown, and now less than halfway into his ride it looked like it might be over. But, riding in memory of his late father, Joe Dougherty, who had lost his battle to brain cancer back in 2008, Kerry was not going to give up that easily.

After a delay of nearly an hour and a half while PMC volunteers first tried to repair his bike and then got him a loaner bike, Dougherty was pedaling once again on his way to Mass Maritime Academy in Bourne to wrap up the first day of riding. And he was back at it again the next day on his way to Provincetown, completing the 192-mile journey despite having to overcome some obstacles.

While it wasn't easy, Dougherty could not have been happier with his first experience at the prestigious event, now in its 40th year of raising money for cancer research for the Dana Farber Cancer Institute.

"It was an awesome experience," Dougherty said. "We had a little adversity to get through, but it was worth it. The crowds were great. There were certain spots along the route where the locals really go all out. There were a couple of streets where everybody had something going on, whether it was people holding signs or dressed up. It was really great."

Between losing his bike and just the physical grind of riding 192 miles, Dougherty needed all the support he could get, and thanks to the crowds along the route, not to mention the training he had put in preparing for the race, he was able to battle his way through.

"It was really tough. I got some really bad cramps around mile sixty on the first day, but I drank a lot of water and Gatorade and ate a lot peanut butter and I was able to get through it," Dougherty said. "I had been training for about three months. I bike about five to fifteen miles to work every day, depending on where I am going, and then I did longer rides on the weekend. I think seventy-five miles was my longest training ride."

But 192 miles over the course of a weekend was obviously taking things to a new level, especially with the setbacks that he suffered along the way. Dougherty had plenty of reason to push himself, namely the memory of his late father. Both his father Joe and his mother Judy had been diagnosed with cancer and while his mother is now cancer free, having beaten breast cancer, his dad was not as fortunate in losing his battle with brain cancer in 2008.

Kerry and his family have a long history of raising money for cancer research.

When Joe was diagnosed back in 2005, some friends of the family had organized a 5K road race in Reading to support Joe and others battling the disease.

"My dad was not supposed to make it past six months, but he made it to three of the races," Dougherty said. "After he passed, me and my brothers took over the organization of the race, and we did it until 2015, but eventually it got to be too much. We just did not have the time to dedicate to it anymore, but I still wanted to raise money in his name and I felt like this would be a great way to raise money."

Of course, actually raising the money was another challenge in itself. Two-day riders must raise at least $5,000, and Dougherty knows he was very fortunate to have so many people help him reach that goal.

"I still had a list of people I used to email for the race, and they were very generous and that got me a good push," Dougherty said. "I also put some things on LinkedIn and reached out to some people I sued to work with. That got me very close to my goal, and then my mom donated the last $500."

Dougherty, who works for HubSpot, a software company in Cambridge, joined 20 other riders on the HubSpot team, who also provided Dougherty with a great deal of support both leading up to and during the race. But his greatest source of support came from those who know him best, his wife Jessica and their children, Joey and Lily.

That support was vital during Kerry's training rides, but was even more important on race day.

"Every weekend morning, I get up at four in the morning to go out riding, but even with that I am not done until eleven or noon time, so that is all on Jess to watch the kids and she is very supportive," Dougherty said. "And then on the day of the ride, I texted Jess when my bike fell apart and told her that I couldn't ride it. She just reminded me of all the time I had dedicated to getting ready for this and how much this meant to me. She gave me the perfect pep talk just when I needed it."

With that kind of support, Dougherty is confident that he will be back again next year for another crack at the PMC.

"I really enjoyed it," Dougherty said. "The way the event is run is incredible, with a ton of volunteers and mechanics all of whom were awesome people. Specifically, for me, when my bike fell apart they all came together to help me have the full experience. They helped me so much so that I could ride every mile which was very important to me. They were so wonderful to me and so wonderful to everyone."

"I think I will do it again next year. It is a chance to raise money in my dad's memory and that is something that is very important to me."

If you would like to donate to Kerry's ride and join him in him in raising money for the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute, please visit him PMC page at <http://profile.pmc.org/KD0261>.

O'Connell, Breakers, capture National Title

Recently, Wilmington resident Tess O'Connell and her NEFC North Shore NPL Under 17 Girls Soccer team came home with the US Soccer National Championship title during the 18th annual prestigious tournament held at Commerce City in Colorado.

The North Shore Breakers were part of a 10-team bracket featuring teams from Texas (2), Ohio, South Carolina, Wyoming, New Jersey, Virginia, California and Georgia.

The Breakers played five games and came away with a 4-0-1 record, including a 2-1 victory in the championship game that was decided on penalty kicks. The Breakers defeated the Vestavia Attack Black, 7-0, the Challenge Edge, 8-0 before ending in a 3-3 tie with the High Plains Select. After that was a semi-final 3-0 win over the SJPA MLV Pride of New Jersey. In those five games, O'Connell had two of the team's goals.

The win over New Jersey put the Breakers into the finals for the third straight year. The game was tied after regulation before the Breakers pulled out the win in penalty kicks (4-3) with O'Connell scoring the first goal.

Tewksbury's Under 16 Softball team enjoys historical weekend

By JOSH CAREDEO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com

T E W K S B U R Y - Tewksbury's U16 Travel Softball Team had a weekend for the record books at the 30th Annual End of Year Tournament, going undefeated on home turf to win the first championship for a 16U team from Tewksbury in its illustrious 30-year history.

Head Coach Keith Stovesand has been coaching most, if not all, of this team from the age of 12.

The 12U and 14U teams improved year to year, and despite no championships to show for it, the girls still had the chance to develop into talented softball players.

Nine girls from Tewksbury and two girls from Somerville made up this year's squad.

"It's a big jump this year because you are dealing with really good high school [talent]," Stovesand said.

"With no practice leading into the tournament due to rain and conflicting schedules, Stovesand's message for his girls heading into the tournament was very simple. "Leave everything on the field, this is it, have fun," he said.

That message seem to work for the girls, as they beat the Northeast Nightmare on Thursday by a score of 4-3, the Lowell Spinners 8-0 in five innings on Friday, and the Seacoast Hurricanes by a score of 10-8 after being down 8-0, good for a 3-0 record in pool play and the No. 2 seed heading into the weekend.

Tewksbury went on to beat the Hurricanes Red team by the score of 5-3, advancing to the championship game against a familiar opponent.

The 16U team played the North Country Spark, who had beat them soundly in game earlier this summer 15-0.

"They were pounding the ball on offense against us," Stovesand said.

Although he isn't a coach who kicks buckets and yells at the girls to fire them up, Stovesand wanted to push back against this team.

Boy, did they ever. A stellar performance from the girls led to a 3-0 shutout victory, giving the 16U girls the championship.

Stovesand says it was a true team effort on offense and defense, but a player that stood out to him was Amanda Moreira. In the semifinal and championship games, Moreira pitched a combined 14 innings, allowing only three runs on three hits.

He also sung praises for Madison Stovesand, Hayley Pote, Katie Ziko, and the entire team; they played strong defensively all weekend long.

"Line drives right at [infielders], diving for balls, [they] had an unbelievable effort," said Stovesand.

Stovesand added that from he's seen over the years, as teams from other towns dismantle their travel softball programs, that it's becoming more rare for teams to have a core of girls from Tewksbury stay together over a period of time.

"Some of those girls had never held a first place trophy before," said Stovesand. "It was an unbelievable experience for them, and to do it at home [and together as a group], it was very fitting."

The Tewksbury 16U Girls Softball team includes Jordan Arolino, Jaclyn Dillon, Julia Dillon, Ashley Giordano, Ava Hardy, Emma Hiltz, Amanda Moreira, Ava Nickerson, Hayley Pote, Madison Stovesand, Paige Talbot, and Katie Ziko.

Keith Stovesand, Allen Hiltz, and Joe Nickerson coached the team.

Fiorenza, others, shine at Hockey Night in Boston Showcase

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

MIDDLETON -- Over the past couple of weeks several local hockey stars have competed in the prestigious Hockey Night in Boston Major Showcase Tournaments. The Major Showcase Tournaments are the culmination of a series of HNIB Tournaments throughout the summer, featuring the players who performed best in the earlier tournaments.

The Hockey Night in Boston Tournament is one of the most prestigious summer hockey tournaments for both boys and girls in the country, bringing together some of the best players in the country and particularly in the Northeast.

Local players were particularly well represented this year in the Girls 25th Annual Major Showcase, which was played this past week from July 31 to August 3 at the Essex Sports Center in Middleton.

Three local players helped lead the Mass Public/Catholic team to the tournament championship, led by Cushing Academy freshman forward Sam Taber of Tewksbury, who led all scorers in the tournament with six goals and three assists for nine points, including three goals and an assist in the team's 5-0 win over Mass Preps in the championship game on Saturday.

Sam was joined on the championship squad by her older sister Erin Taber, a senior at Austin Prep, who had one goal and two assists in the tournament and helped lead a defense that allowed only two goals for the entire six game tournament which saw Mass Public/Catholic go undefeated and outscore their opponents 23-2 overall.

Leading that tremendous defensive effort was goalie Kaia Hollingsworth of Methuen, who last spring helped lead the Tewksbury/Methuen Girls Hockey team to the state championship at the TD Garden. Hollingsworth did not allow a goal throughout the HNIB Tournament, stopping all 56 shots she faced while splitting goaltending duties with Riley MacCausland of Shrewsbury. For efforts, Hollingsworth was named the top goalie of the tournament.

The three members of the championship team were not the only local players doing their towns proud, however, as Winchendon School sophomore forward Kaylen Taddia of Tewksbury and sophomore defenseman Maura Fiorenza led the Mass Preps squad all the way to the championship game before they were finally defeated by the Mass Public/Catholic squad.

Tewksbury High sophomore forward Jessica Driscoll and Tewksbury High senior forward Lydia Pendleton, both members of the championship Tewksbury/Methuen squad, helped lead the Northeast team to a 3-1-1 record, with Driscoll contributing three goals to the team's cause.

Other players who played in the tournament included Brewster Academy junior defenseman Erin Carter of Wilmington and Austin Prep junior defenseman Jade Owirka of Tewksbury, both of whom played for the Junior Shamrocks. Tewksbury High sophomore goalie Michelle Kusmaul played two and a half games for the Metro team, posting a 2.80 Goals Against Average.

On the boys side, several players competed in the 45th Annual Boys Major Showcase, which was held at the Haverhill Valley Forum from July 24-28. Three players helped lead team New England to a 3-0-2 record and a second place finish in the Gilmartin Division, advancing all the way to the semifinals where they lost to eventual champ Middlesex.

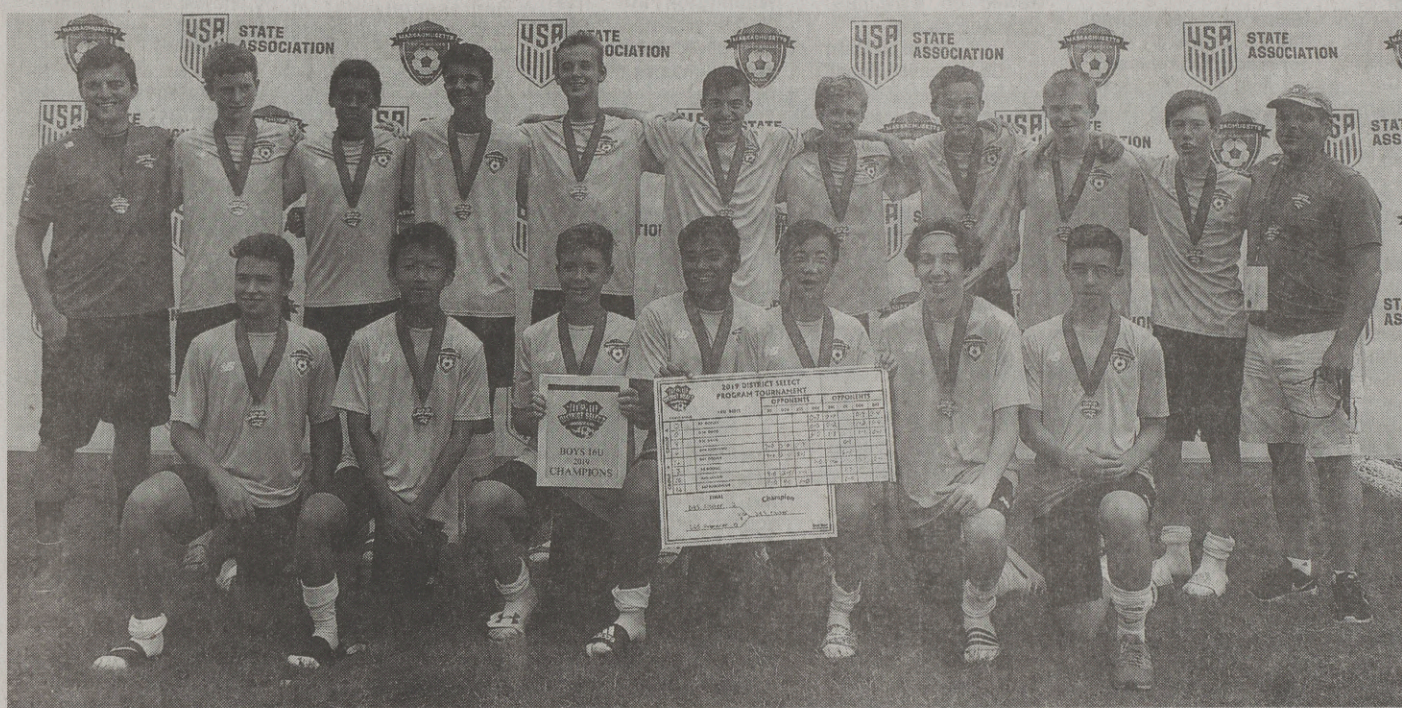

Tewksbury High senior forward Campbell Pierce helped lead New England with two goals and two assists for the tournament, including a goal and an assist in their 6-2 quarterfinal win over Tri-State.

Wilmington resident David Bazile was team New England's leading scorer in the tournament with three goals and five assists for eight points, while fellow Wilmington resident, junior Matthew Pendenza also contributed to the team's success.

Other players in the Boys Showcase included junior Paidric Green of Tewksbury, who helped lead Team Suburban to a 3-2 record, and Austin Prep sophomore Ryan Ackerly of Wilmington, who led the Sophomore All-Stars to a 2-1-2 record.

In addition to their great run to the semifinals with Team New England, Colby Pierce and David Bazile were also selected to play in the Boys Major All-Star Game on July 27. Pierce and Bazile played for Team Teal, who skated to a 3-3 tie with Team Maroon, with Bazile scoring one of the goals for Team Teal.

The Boys U16 District 4 South team went 5-0 this weekend to capture the District Select State title. There was heavy support from Wilmington with players Eric Fischer, Ryan Wilson, Evan Pinto, Liam Dwyer and Nicholas Fanuele along with coaches Michael and Ryan Fischer. The team scored 20 goals while only allowing two over the five games. (courtesy photo).

Many local runners take part in 'Run to Home Base' Event

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.co m

BOSTON - The committed runners of Tewksbury and Wilmington have not let some oppressive heat keep them off the roadways, as they continue to do their towns proud by competing in several local road races.

In what was the most popular of these races, many local runners took part in the Run to Home Base on Saturday, July 27.

The Run to Home Base is an annual race that begins and ends at Boston's Fenway Park, with Fenway's home plate serving as the finish line.

Last year's Run to Home Base raised nearly $2 million to support key programs at Home Base to help veterans and their families heal from the invisible wounds, such as post-traumatic stress (PTS) and traumatic brain injury (TBI), and welcomed thousands of Home Base supporters to Fenway

Park

There are actually two races to choose from, with both a 5K and a 9K race, and both Wilmington and Tewksbury were well represented in each race.

Starting with the 5K race, the top local finisher was Brian Priem of Wilmington, who finished 29th overall in a field of over 1,000 runners in a time of 23:50.

Other Wilmington runners who followed Priem included the top local female finisher, Stef Paton, who was 286th overall in a time of 33:03. They were followed by Christel Kittredge (394th, 36:15), Bob Mayo (806th, 52:54), Mackenzie Fitzgerald (954th, 58:30) and Sloan Fitzgerald (956th, 58:31).

Eleven Tewksbury runners took to the course, led by Chris Buckley who finished 125th overall in a time of 28:39. He was followed by Gary Jop (262nd, 32:32), Kayla Biagioni-Smith (324th, 34:13), Chelsea Lamarche (327th, 34:16), Allyson Casey (344th, 34:56), Darina Polsonetti (494th, 39:04), Kaitlyn Anderson (701st, 48:16), Kate Coulliard (830th, 53:09), Ann-Marie Morefield (832nd, 53:17), Jeanne Selissen (861st, 54:31), and Vance Winchell (862nd, 54:32).

Both towns were also well represented in the 9K race with five Wilmington residents and eleven Tewksbury residents opting for the longer race.

Kristen Emde led all Wilmington runners, finishing 379th in a time of 51:49, followed closely by former Town Crier Sports Reporter Lou Cimaglia in 452nd place in a time of 54:03. Other Wilmington runners included Jennifer Pagani (646th, 58:38), Erica Forte (871st, 1:06:13) and Linda Borseti (909th, 1:07:33).

The top local finisher was Fil Faria of Tewksbury, who was 25th overall in a time of 39:07. The 54-year old Faria was also second in the 50-59 age group. Heather Carroll was next, finishing in 80th place overall in a time of 43:06, which also placed her third in the 20-29 age group among females.

Other Tewksbury runners included Luke Hirst (125th, 44:38), Brian Haley (165th, 46:17), Scott Richardson (385th, 52:01), Lillian Greer (472nd, 54:44), Jean Della Piana (537th, 56:20), Kevin Gerard (570th, 57:02), Jennifer Jordan (597th, 57:33) Susan Scott (734th, 1:01:43) and Bridget McDermott (955th, 1:10:11)

Mystic Runners Lake Q

Several local runners also took part in the Mystic Runners Lake Q 5k in Wakefield on July 31st.

Gregory Adamek of Wilmington led all local runners, finishing second overall in a time of 17:59. In fact, Wilmington runners dominated the top six spots of the race, with Owen Surette finishing third overall in a time of 18:36, followed by Joe Lydon in fifth in a time of 18:51 and Jake Danieli in sixth in a time of 19:35.

Jake Aquino of Tewksbury broke the string of Wilmington runners with an eighth place finish in a time of 20:01, before Wilmington runners once again took over with Sean Lydon taking 12th place in a time of 21:46. He was followed by Brian Elderd (14th, 22:13), Gianna Misuraca (18th, 23:03) and Brian Schell (19th, 23:03).
